

Choose Columbia
Columbia Economic Development Corporation

Patricia Finnegan

Columbia Economic Development Corporation Board of Directors

Patricia Finnegan was elected to the Columbia Economic Development Corporation Board of Directors on January 15, 2016.

Patricia (Tish) is the Vice President of Care Center Administration for Columbia Memorial Health, where she oversees the network's primary specialty and urgent care centers. Tish joined the CMH executive team in 2005 and has nearly 25 years of experience in a variety of roles across the healthcare network.

As active community volunteer, Tish serves on the leadership boards of the Greene County Rural Health Network and The Second Show thrift shop, a CMH fundraising organization.

Tish is a graduate of Columbia-Greene Community College and The University of Albany, where she earned bachelor's degrees in psychology and sociology.