Executive Summary

The Columbia Economic Development Corporation (CEDC) engaged MC Fiber Services (MCFS) to conduct a study to identify areas that lacked 100MB capable broadband infrastructure and to identify other areas where the County could deploy fiber optic infrastructure to increase efficiencies or reduce costs. This study is a first step in securing federal funding to bring 100% broadband coverage to Columbia County.

The unserved areas are numerous and addressing them will take up the bulk of this report. MCFS identified 1,110 unserved locations in 225 disparate locations.

Study Methodology

Determining the location of unserved areas can be difficult and time consuming. Consumer surveys are unreliable because customers are frequently confused by the type of service and speeds they are purchasing. MCFS identified dwellings with 100MB capable infrastructure present on the serving pole, yet it was not connected to the home and the homeowner was unaware that the service was available.

MCFS determined the best method of finding unserved dwellings was to physically inspect the telecom infrastructure that could not be verified by other means. Mid-Hudson Cablevision (Mid-Hudson) and Germantown Telephone Company (GTel) provided detailed maps of their coverage areas which eliminated the need for inspections within their footprints.

The predominate terrestrial broadband technology in America is “Hybrid Fiber Coax” (HFC) which is one of the technical platforms deployed by Mid-Hudson. Following HFC is “Fiber To The Home” (FTTH) which is the platform deployed by Consolidated Communications (Consolidated), GTel and Mid-Hudson in some areas. There is no discernable difference between the technical platforms for consumers and both are relatively straightforward to identify for experienced field technicians.

The Consolidated service area presented numerous challenges because of the history of ownership and aged telecom plant. The service area footprint of Consolidated consists of the former Taconic Telephone Company (Taconic) and Berkshire Telephone Company (Berkshire). Both Taconic and Berkshire constructed cable television systems by installing coaxial cable on the same pole attachment as the telephone cable. In 1998, FairPoint acquired Taconic and subsequently sold the cable system to Charter Communications (Charter). The FairPoint telephone cable and the legacy Charter coaxial cable shared the same pole attachment. Charter and Time Warner merged to create Spectrum and MCFS has limited information on the legacy Charter coax.

FairPoint acquired Berkshire in 2003 and retained ownership of the Berkshire cable system but has not upgraded the system to provide digital services which are necessary to deliver broadband Internet. It is extremely rare that a coaxial plant is unequipped to deliver digital services, and this required additional investigation in multiple areas.

Adding to the challenge of surveying the broadband infrastructure in the County is the amount of fiber optic cable that is not equipped for subscriber services. Consolidated and Verizon have fiber optic cables for network transport and, FirstLight, Crown Castle Telecommunications and Level3 fiber optic cables were also identified. In one example, a MCFS field technician followed a Verizon fiber optic line 5 miles into an unserved area and determined it terminated at a house on a dirt road. The homeowner paid to have it installed because he was unable to work remotely without reliable Internet. The cable was not equipped for subscriber services.

In addition to the information provided by GTel and Mid-Hudson, the Columbia County Planning Department and members of the community played a key role in gathering and providing information. MCFS coordinated with the CEDC to set up an email account, ColumbiaCounty@MCFiberServices.com, that was used exclusively for reporting areas that lacked broadband access.

Current situation

Columbia County has very unique telecom infrastructure. While most counties in New York are served by Verizon and Spectrum, Columbia County is served predominantly by 3 independent carriers with Verizon serving a small part of the County. Mid-Hudson and GTel are based locally, and Consolidated is headquartered in Mattoon, IL with an Operations Center in Chatham, NY. Verizon and Spectrum declined to provide information for the study.

The numerous gaps in service are a result of the use of census tracts as geographic boundaries for funding under the Broadband for All program (Broadband for All \(ny.gov\)), confusion over the Spectrum expansion required by the settlement with the New York Public Service Commission and a lack of a universal service strategy in funding programs.

MCFS identified 1,110 unserved addresses in 225 disparate locations. The table below is a summary of Unserved by Town. Detailed information on individual towns can be found in the individual Exhibits for each area. The CEDC web site contains files with the most current information.

Sources of Funding

CEDC conducted the study in anticipation of federal funding being available in the latter part of Government Fiscal Year 2021. The American Rescue Plan Act of 2021 (ARPA) includes up to $350 billion in funding to be distributed directly to the states for broadband projects. The final funding rules should be announced soon. In addition to ARPA, the Infrastructure Investment and Jobs Act includes another $65 billion in funding for broadband infrastructure.

The County will be in a position to secure federal funding routed through the NY Broadband Program Office (BPO) or directly from USDA. It is unknown at this time how the BPO will distribute the money, but it will likely be the preferred option for funding. USDA grants can be administratively burdensome and are typically done on a reimbursement basis, requiring the grant recipient to secure a line of credit.

The County is in an excellent position to secure funding early. There is significant demand for broadband infrastructure funding and being prepared to apply for funding will assure County's application has a greater chance at being successful. The most likely outcome is multiple sources may be required to fill gaps in funding.

Other Considerations

ARPA funding is intended to support long-term economic development. This is a unique opportunity to solve the digital divide in the County while strengthening the local technology companies that will play important roles in the future economic health of the County. Locally based technology businesses provide good technical jobs based in the community, higher levels of service and reliability, and are partners on community development initiatives. The County should consider the long-term economic value of keeping the dollars spent on telecom services and technology within the County, especially when state and federal policy favors the major corporations and frequently places smaller, local carriers at a disadvantage.

Based on what is publicly known about ARPA, there may be several opportunities for the County to use ARPA funds and partner with local companies in an effort to retain and increase local technology jobs while expanding broadband competition. As one example, ARPA allows for a carrier to build through an area served by Spectrum to reach an unserved area. This assumes local carriers are willing to participate but it is worth exploring. Another possible use of ARPA is funding for local companies to expand wireless services in the County through the use of micro-cells and Wi-Fi hot spots.

There are several possibilities in securing ARPA funding for rural healthcare technology. As one example, USDA Rural Housing Services made a Notice of Funds Available on August 15, 2021, to include "Impact grants to offer longer-term funding to advance ideas and solutions to support long-term sustainability of rural health."

Conclusions

This study is an important first step in solving the digital divide in Columbia County. Now that the unserved locations are identified, MCFS is engaged to assist the CEDC in the next step of working with carriers to determine the level of funding required to bring universal broadband service to Columbia County
